TODAY & TOMORROW

SEPTEMBER 4-17, 1982

ADDRESS CORRECTION REQUESTED RUSH — TIME DATED

(Newsbriefs continued)

The Contracts and Grants Office reminds individuals that all Public Health Service requests for prior approval and rebudgeting are to be stated on form 71455-256. These forms are available in the Storehouse and should be ordered immediately for use by principal investigators.

In addition, for rebudgeting, the principal investigator's signature must always appear on the request. Prior approval is required from Contracts and Grants or the Public Health Service to place a requisition with Purchasing, if the piece of equipment is over 15 percent of the original cost stated, and if there is a change in the equipment item.

For further information call x2977.

The Materiel Management Department also reminds all principal investigators and department chairs that an inventory of all stocks of controlled substances on hand must be submitted to them by September 30.

Controlled substances fall under the jurisdiction of the U. S. Department of Justice and are regulated by the Federal and State of California Controlled Substances Acts. This requirement of reporting an inventory occurs biennially and applies to all controlled substances used in patient care, teaching or research.

For further information contact Ron Aguirre, x5761.

Members of the Academic Senate are reminded that copies of the Library Facility Planning Program are now available for inspection in the Academic Senate Office, S 101, and at the Circulation Desk in the Library.

The planning program deals with the organizational, structural and safety aspects of the new Library.

Deadline for the next issue of Today & Tomorrow, which will cover the period September 18-October 1, will be Tuesday, September 7, 11 a.m. Please send your copy to Allen Balderson, News & Public Information Services, 532 Parnassus Ave., Rm. 300, x1541 or x2557.

David J. Ramsay, professor and vice chair of the Department of Physiology, has been appointed Academic Vice Chancellor by Chancellor Julius R. Krevans. Ramsay will begin his new appointment following Regents' approval at their September 17 meeting.

Ramsay came to UCSF in 1975 as an associate professor and has served as vice chair of the Department of Physiology since 1976. Born in England, he received his BA, DPhil and BM (equivalent to MD) degrees from Oxford University, and was University Lecturer in Physiology there from 1966 to 1975. He also served as acting dean of Oxford's Corpus Christi College during 1970.

Currently chair of the Campus Advisory Committee on Animal Care, the Academic Senate Planning and Budget Committee and the Basic Science Subcommittee, Ramsay was president of the Medical Teachers Association from 1971 to 1975 and received the coveted Distinguished Teaching Award from the Academic Senate in 1978.

The Personnel Department and the Pediatric Reading and Language Development Clinic will be moving from their current campus locations to the Laguna Honda School at Seventh Avenue and Irving Street, effective Monday, September 13.

The offices will occupy the first floor of the school. They will include a conference room, which will be available to members of the neighborhood as a community resource when not being used by UCSF, including evenings and weekends.

Academic programs of the School of Medicine will occupy the second and third floors when renovation is completed.

In preparation for the move, the Personnel Department will be closed Thursday and Friday, September 9 and 10.

A shuttle bus will run every 20 minutes between the campus and Laguna Honda School. For information on the shuttle schedule contact Transportation Services at x1511.

A neighborhood open house is planned for the late fall. Details on how to schedule meetings in the community meeting room will be announced later.

UCSF leased Laguna Honda School from the S. F. Unified School District last year, when the district declared it and a number of other schools as surplus property. The adjacent public parking lot and the playground are still under the jurisdiction of the city and the school district.

NEWS BRIEFS

Raymond A. Clark has been appointed the new UCSF Chief of Police. Director of Safety and Police Service for the past six years at Peralta Community College District in the East Bay, where he served five campuses, Clark replaces LaVerne Lopes, who retired in June of this year. His appointment will be effective September 20.

Clark received both his MS and MBA degrees from California Western University in Santa Ana. He has taught police science at Peralta College and police courses at Merritt and Los Medanos colleges and has received numerous public service awards.

Clark is the first black person to be appointed chief of police in the nine-campus UC system.

Two major grants for occupational health have been given to the Occupational Health Clinic at SFGH and the Northern California Occupational Health Center.

● A multidisciplinary training program for students and professionals in the field of occupational health will be expanded by a three-year grant of $621,546 from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation to the Occupational Health Clinic at SFGH.

Expansion of the program will help ease the severe shortage of health professionals trained to treat work-related health problems, according to Richard H. Fine, MD, medical director of the Adult Health Center at SFGH. He adds that it also will help to meet the growing demand by organized labor for occupational health care services.

UC-Berkeley also is participating in this project.

● The Northern California Occupational Health Center, which encompasses UC campuses at Berkeley, San Francisco and Davis, has been awarded a five-year grant from the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health to establish an Educational Resource Center.

The federal grant, in the amount of $179,000 for the first year, will enable the Occupational Health Center to augment existing training programs in occupational medicine, nursing and industrial hygiene, and will allow the Center to provide additional continuing education programs for community health professionals.

The state-funded Center is based at UC-Berkeley; most of the residency training programs are coordinated through UCSF and are based at SFGH under the direction of Charles E. Becker, MD.

Applications now are being accepted for two fellowship programs designed for individuals who are in the early years of their professional careers. Detailed information on both can be obtained from the Academic Affairs Office, S 115.

● The White House Fellowship Program is designed to provide gifted and highly motivated Americans with firsthand experience in the process of governing the nation by serving for one year as special assistants to cabinet secretaries or senior members of the White House staff and participating in an education program which includes seminars with top government officials and leading scholars.

For further information contact: The President's Commission on White House Fellowships, 712 Jackson Place N. W., Washington, D. C. 20503, (202) 395-4522.

● The W. K. Kellogg Foundation is inviting nominations for their National Fellowship Program, which is designed to involve individuals interested in developing interdisciplinary and cross-cultural perspectives on contemporary human and social problems.

Through the program, a three-year award of up to $35,000 will be made in behalf of some 50 young leaders of exceptional merit and competence.

Application deadline is October 31, 1982. For further information write: Kellogg National Fellowship Program, W. K. Kellogg Foundation, 400 North Avenue, Battle Creek, Michigan 49016, or call (616) 968-1611.

The UCSF Preschool Language and Early Skills Program is helping children with communication and learning problems.

Organized in 1976, the Preschool Program is part of the Child Study Unit of the Department of Pediatrics and is designed for children from three to six years of age with average abilities who are having major difficulty with communication skills.

Problems can include delayed speech and language development, immature fine and gross motor skills, poor socialization ability, or a general lack of readiness for kindergarten.

The goal of the program is to help children and their families identify and remedy communication problems at an early age. Before enrolling in the program, child and parents are referred to the UCSF Audiology and Speech Clinic for a speech and language evaluation and hearing screening, at no charge to any child having communication problems.

Enrollment fees for this program are based on a sliding scale with additional financial assistance available to families having significant need. For further information call x1776. This program will be moving to Laguna Honda School. (See front page Newsbrief for details.)

Forty-nine new members have been elected to the Institute of Medicine, National Academy of Sciences, including three faculty from UCSF — Carroll L. Estes, PhD, professor and chair, Department of Social and Behavioral Sciences, School of Nursing; Steven A. Schroeder, MD, professor of Medicine, and chief of the Division of General Internal Medicine; and Ralph O. Wallerstein, clinical professor, Medicine and Laboratory Medicine.

This brings the total to 18 UCSF faculty who are members of the Institute.

Major recent changes in the financing of health care could dramatically alter the character and availability of health care services for children in California.

A conference will be held on Thursday, September 9, in HSW 300 to address this issue in an effort to assure the maximum potential benefit for children from these new approaches to health care delivery.

The conference is being organized by the UCSF Institute for Health Policy Studies, the California district of the American Academy of Pediatrics, and the Children's Research Institute of California.

Entitled "Recent Health Insurance Reforms: Their Impact on California's Children," the conference will include discussions led by Henry Foley, PhD, director of the Arizona Health Care Cost Containment System, and Robert Burnett, MD, director of Lifeguard, a large foundation-based "open panel" Health Maintenance Organization, and CMA president-elect.

UCSF faculty participating in the conference include Philip R. Lee, MD, Lucy Ann Geiselman, PhD, and Peter P. Budetti, MD, JD, all Institute for Health Policy Studies; and Delmer J. Pascoe, MD, Pediatrics and Family and Community Medicine, at SFGH.

The conference is funded by the Henry J. Kaiser Family Foundation, with additional support from the Zellerbach Family Fund.

For registration information contact Helen Gonzales, x3896.

Graduation ceremonies will be held on Friday, September 24, for the five graduates of the Nuclear Medicine Technology Educational Program — Stephen Fuller, Kimberly Nichols, Richard Slater, Kathryn Stumpf and Donald Torre.

This twelve-month program is sponsored by the Hospitals and Clinics and is accredited by CAHEA. Applications now are being accepted for next year's program which starts in September, 1983. Applicants must have a baccalaureate degree in basic science with a grade-point average of 3.0 or higher.

For further information contact Dorothy Duffy Price, technical director of the Nuclear Medicine Section, or Heather Dickson, educational coordinator, at x1521.

The UCSF Diabetes Teaching Center is offering a four-day course year-round to diabetics and their families.

The course instructs the diabetic in the different aspects of proper self-care, including administration of diabetic medications, blood glucose monitoring, urine testing for sugar and acetone, food selection and preparation, and prevention and management of complications.

This School of Nursing program covers all the information a diabetic should know about the disease and how to live with it in as normal a manner as possible.

For registration information contact Peggy Huang, RN, at 665-1010.

The Human Sexuality Program, under director Evalyn Gendel, MD, and the Department of Psychiatry, will honor the Sex and Disability Unit staff at a reception Tuesday, September 14, in the Langley Porter staff lounge from 4 to 6 p.m. Friends and colleagues are invited to attend. The unit is ending its program after nine years, due to lack of funds.

The Unit was started by Susan Knight, LCSW, and Robert Geiger, MD, through a grant from the United Cerebral Palsy Association of San Francisco. The grant enabled the staff to explore sexuality for people with cerebral palsy and spinal cord injury. Further funding from NIMH and HEW's Department of Education provided for training teachers and educator-counselors — the majority of whom were physically disabled themselves — in curricula for physically disabled students in family-life education, social skills development and the prevention of sexual abuse.

The Unit has trained some 800 individuals who now work in rehabilitation centers, hospitals and disabled student programs throughout the country.

UCSF is not involved in a plan proposed by Dr. J. Alfred Rider for a hotel to be constructed behind his building at 350 Parnassus Avenue, Chancellor Krevans announced.

"This is not a UCSF building," the Chancellor emphasized. "We have had absolutely no part in the planning for the project. When the question came up in 1976, the campus took a position opposing the project; there has been no change from that position."

In a public statement issued on January 9, 1976, then Chancellor Sooy declared, "This campus has supported downzoning for this neighborhood; we have pledged that we ourselves will acquire no additional residential property either by purchase or by eminent domain; and we have in two cases turned residential property donated to us back to private residential use. We will join the neighborhood in continuing to support these principles.

"There is a need for some sort of low-cost accommodation for patients and their families who come to UCSF from northern and central California and from all over the western states, for complex diagnostic and special treatment afforded by the campus as a tertiary medical and health center. We would hope that at some point in time someone will provide such accommodation in a nearby neighborhood, but would construct it in a commercial, not a residential area, that would be within convenient commuting distance to this campus.

"The need is really for low-cost housing for people who must come a long way and stay a long time," he declared.

The Rider Hotel issue will be on the November city ballot as Proposition M.
